

Intention report about the cooperation between Kharkiv national agrarian university named after V.V.Dokuchaev and Universidade do Algarve (Portugal)

Kharkiv national agrarian university named after V.V.Dokuchaev (KhNAU) (Ukraine) and Universidade do Algarve (Portugal) are the leading agrarian universities of their countries basing on the principles of friendship and equality of rights of partnership. These higher educational establishments have some related directions of their activities. That is why they intend to develop their joint cooperation in the sphere of science and education. To strengthen international cooperation the universities have decided to do the following things:

1. The parties work out joint complex researches in the sphere of agrarian science innovation.
2. The parties exchange students enabling them to have scientific practical training. To improve professional skills, to carry out research work, to acquaint themselves with the peculiarities of agrarian sector lecturers and employees of the universities are directed to study at short-term courses. Courses terms, the numbers of the groups directed to courses are determined by the joint negotiations of the universities administration. The hosting side organizes courses, pays accommodation expenditures and provides with all the necessary material (methodical text- books, books, prices, visual aids, etc.)
3. The parties receive students to train (after finishing a preparatory department). If a student has a proper language training he (the) is accepted for any chosen department when the interview with him (her) is held successfully.
4. The parties direct holders of a master's degree to study at post-graduate course further provided a proper language training.
5. The parties inform and invite partners to practical and scientific seminars, conferences and congresses in proper time.
6. Financial questions: (accommodation, studies, meetings, participation in scientific and practical arrangements) are confirmed by the parties in their detailed agreement, discussing all the necessary conditions on certain points.
